Our Cockeyed Foreign Policy

STANDARD OIL UBER ALLES

Our foreign policy is something that has puzzled realists since the happy daze of the Roosevelt administration. Except during the Truman era, when it was a total blank, it has been growing in venality and intensity. Frankly, its sole purpose is to protect the huge Rockefeller industrial interests abroad. The latest price we have paid for it is the deaths of over 3,800 American boys (to date) in our senseless no-win war in Viet Nam, the only honest account of which has been published in January CAPSULE NEWS.

Standard Oil is the sole beneficiary of the Viet Nam Crime. But other large branches of the Rockefeller Hierarchy abroad are being protected by the tax dollars of American victims. How they do it has been a-building since they and their Kept Press jimmied Franklin Roosevelt into the White House.

In 1919, a small group from the Wall Street international banking fraternity organized to get us involved in the abortive League of Nations. They called it the "Council on Foreign Relations." A small group of pro-American Senators combined to stop this, altho they were pilloried unmercifully by the Kept Press. In 1927, the House of Rockefeller took over the CFR lock, stock and barrel, provided all the cash needed to operate and even a large house at the corner of Park Avenue and 68th Street in NY City as headquarters.

Super Training School---This has become, among other things, a training school for Cabinet Officers and high echelon State Department officials, not to speak of ambassadors to foreign countries in which the Rockefeller industrial empire has large installations. Its latest annual report lists 1,424 "students", 722 of whom are stationed outside of New York and many of them in foreign embassies. Included in this non-resident list are the current Secretaries of State, Defense, Treasury and Commerce and the head of the (making it their) CIA and foreign-aid giveaways, called AID.

It is also significant that they "signed up" every Presidential candidate they could---winners and losers. Such as Dewey and Stevenson (2-time losers), Hoover (winner-loser), Eisenhower and Kennedy (winners). They didn't get Nixon (the real 1960 winner) so they stole the election from him.

Truman never was listed but he started the Korean War for them (illegally) when the Chinese Reds captured the Chase National Bank branch in Peking and helped themselves to 30 million Rockefeller dollars. LBJ's name is not on their list yet, but he is serving them faithfully by keeping the Viet Nam Crime going so Standard Oil operations on the Peninsula won't be interfered with.

Rockefeller Hierarchy Protectorate---To protect the political and business interests of more than a score of huge Rockefeller companies abroad, and many lesser ones, they have appointed the Secretary of State (Rusk), two Undersecretaries (Ball & Mann) and three Assistant Secretaries (Bundy, MacArthur and Talbott). NEXT: COCKEYED RACISM

Not to speak of the Counsellor of the State Dept. (Rostow). Also 19 ambassadors to nations where the Rockies have large establishments, viz:

Argentina (Martin), Brazil (Gordon), Bulgaria (Davis), Cameroons (Barrows), China (Wright), France (Bohlen), Germany (McGehee), Great Britain (Bruce), India (Bowles), Italy (Reinhardt), Japan (Reischauer), Poland (Cabot), Portugal (Anderson), South Africa (Satterthwaite), Spain (Duke), Turkey (Hare), Burma (Byroade), South Viet Nam (Lodge), Ambassadors-at-Large (whatever they are) Averell Harriman and Parker T. Hart (United Nations (Arthur J. Goldberg). All of these names will be found in the 1965 Annual Report of Rockefeller's subversive Council on Foreign Relations.

Included in the Protectorate (for domestic depredations) are the Secretary of the Treasury (Fowler), the Undersecretary (Deming); Secretary of Commerce (Connor); Secretary of Health Etc. (Gardner); Secretary of Defense (McNamara); Secretary of the Army (Resor); Secretary of the Navy (Nitze), Assistant Secretary (Longstreet); Undersecretary of the Air Force (Norman Paul).

Many Billions Involved---Standard Oil Co. (with $10½ billion in assets) has 122 subsidiaries, in which they own 100% voting control, according to Moody's Manual of Industrials, operating in foreign countries and protected on all sides by State Department personnel, and military personnel if they decide such is necessary. Also, 54 subsidiaries in which they have less than 100% voting control, and 12 "affiliates".

These figures do not include their operations in Thailand and Burma, which they keep secret from the editors of Moody's. But we have seen their operations in Thailand with our own two eyes. We have seen part of the force of 15,000 US engineer troops building military roads for Standard Oil from Bangkok to the Rockefeller oil fields 600 miles to the North.

This is the pattern for our foreign policy and the reason it sounds so cockeyed to the average American.

Big Business---Next in size to Standard Oil is Rockefeller's General Motors, with its $8¼ billion of assets and huge plants in Britain, Germany, France, Spain, South Africa, Australia, Denmark, Belgium, Canada, Brazil, Mexico, New Zealand, Sweden, Norway, Peru, Portugal, Uruguay and Venezuela. All US ambassadors to these countries are on the alert to see that no harm befalls General Motors and other Rockefeller corporations in their bailiwicks, tho some of them may be under the impression that General Motors is just another graduate of West Point. If trouble arises they'll soon be straightened out by the Rockefeller Secretary of State.

Socony Mobil means Standard Oil Company of New York. The real big Standard Oil is Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Socony Mobil operates in 30 foreign lands, according to Moody's. International Telephone & Telegraph (assets $427,000,000) has operations in 24 lands, General Foods (½ billion) 15 nations, National Dairy Products (¾ billion) 9, International Paper (a billion) 6, International Harvester ($1½ billion) 15, Goodrich Tire ($645 million) 13, Standard Brands (½ billion) 13, Bendix Brakes (½ billion) 7, International Business Machines ($400 million) 84, General Dynamics ($800 million) 7.

Drug Trust Operations---Fifteen units of the Rockefeller Drug Trust operate in foreign lands. If they are as guilty of false advertising abroad as they are in the US, they'll need all the aid and interference from our State Department they can get. The largest are Parke-Davis operating in 70 countries, Merck & Company in 30 and Schering in 27.

Other depredators in this category include Abbott, American Home Products, Bristol-Myers, Eli Lilly, Richardson-Merrell (of Thalidomide "fame"), Pfizer, Olin-Mathieson, Upjohn, Vick's, Warner-Lambert, Mead-Johnson and Johnson & Johnson. Warner-Lambert is the racket that took care of old "Doc" Scheele, with a $60,000-a-year "job" (pension or honorarium), after he had served the Drug Trust well and faithfully for many years as Surgeon General of their US Public Health Service.

Another key appointment to our foreign service by the Rock Mob is Ellsworth Bunker fresh out of their CFR, as a special ambassador to Santo Domingo. That country has been in a turmoil ever since. Bunker's task is to use, and threaten to use, US Marines anytime the Dominican government, or rebels, threaten the Rockefeller refineries and acres (300,000 of them) known as the Central Romana sugar company. (Turn Over)

This story was told in detail here on July 3, 1975, behind all the trouble there. The iron-fisted anti-communist Trujillo, who kept everything under control, was bumped off when he made it clear that he intended to make the Rockefeller sugar interests in his country honest for a change.

This is the reason our alleged foreign policy looks so cockeyed to the average American. And why it is so wonderful to the Rockefeller Heirarchy which finances so many political campaigns---Senate, House and Presidential---and thinks they "deserve" it. But what do the American people deserve? This?

CISSY---One of the better jobs to come out of the book mill this season is an autobiography of Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, known far and wide as "Cissy", who kept Washington society on its ears from 1930 to her untimely death in 1948. It is of interest to all residents (permanent and temporary) of Washington in particular, and to all newspaper workers in general. Cissy was a character but a delightful one. She was the multimillionairess who bought the editorship of Hearst's Washington HERALD for a hobby, and ended up buying both his Washington papers, after proving to be a better newspaper editor than any man in the Hearst menage. And this included Willie himself. For she took this broken down newspaper property in 1930, when it was losing a million a year, with a circulation of only 62,647, tripled it circulation and changed red ink figures into black ones.

The work of a NY Daily News reporter (Paul Healy), put out by Doubleday at $5.95 a crack, it makes delightful, entertaining and interesting reading. The one criticism is that the author, for some unapparent reason, pulls his punches on Drew (Ananias) Pearson who, thru no fault of hers, was Cissy's son-in-law for three years. Healy makes it look like Cissy was "fond" of the All America Louse, even after her daughter got on to him and gave him the air. On the contrary, she got tired of apologizing to prominent people for the lies Pearson wrote in his syndicated column. But she didn't throw it out of the Times-Herald until she discovered he was a Russian agent bent on overthrowing the US government, the free enterprise system and the American way of life. With this blast she parted company with this arch hatist and traitor:

"Pearson does his filthy work of plotting, planning, sneaking, lying, stealing and smearing in the hope of one day overthrowing our American form of government---for that's all it amounts to." Period.

40,000 Years

Unfolding before the Senate Ethics Committee the past month has been the most revolting story of personal degeneracy, double crossing, receiving of stolen goods and disgraceful "journalism" ever recorded in the history of this or any other country. Not even the "Heathen Chinee", immortalized by Bret Harte, can come close.

It is the story of the theft from Senator Dodd's office of 4,000 personal documents by a character named James Boyd, befriended by Senator Dodd, who turned on him like a rattlesnake when approached by Drew (Ananias) Pearson and Jack (Underground Ike) Anderson to procure these documents for their pusillanimous purposes. Unless we can't read the DC Criminal Code correctly, James (Rattlesnake) Boyd can get from one to ten years on each count of grand theft involved. The other two can get similar terms, if the case is properly handled by the prosecuting authorities.

40,000 Years---An amusing feature is called the reductio ad absurdum. This means a speculation on the ultimate that could be but undoubtedly wont. If Pearson could be convicted on 4,000 separate counts of receiving stolen goods, a judge could give him 40,000 years in the penitentiary if he wished---but undoubtedly wont. Anderson could get a similar rap but wont. As for Boyd, they can throw the key away.

Boyd admits the grand theft. He also admits what is actually burglary. It seems that while still employed by Senator Dodd, he had an "extra" key made to the office when approached by Pearson with a proposition to steal the Dodd documents. Also that he went into the Dodd offices, surreptitiously, after he had been dismissed for incompetency, on a Sunday and committed the thefts.

Receiving Stolen Goods---When the Boyd thefts had come to light Drew Ananias and Underground Ike squawked in their "column" that they hadn't stolen anything. When it dawned on them that receiving stolen goods was as serious a crime as the stealing, then they claimed Boyd had come to them voluntarily to sell them "some dirt" on Dodd. Nobody believed this, because the Pearson Column is the source of most original journalistic garbage.

Then, when the Ethics Committee got him under oath, Boyd blew the whistle on his co-conspirators. This made sense so that whatever Boyd is charged with and tried for, he will have two "distinguished" co-defendants. He will also have a 3d one, a treacherous dame named Marjorie Carpenter, who also bit the hand that fed her. She admitted helping the Snake burglarize the Dodd offices on a Sunday afternoon or two.

The Snake---Boyd's crime against Sen. Dodd is just about the worst in history. Dodd put him on the Senate payroll at $23,000 a year. A look at his photos in the newspapers indicates to us he wouldn't be worth $23 a year. So that in three years, thru Sen. Dodd's goodness of heart Boyd received more than he ever will in a whole lifetime after this. They don't pay very high wages for prison labor.

Wire Tapping---Lately Pearson has been inveighing against the big, bad wiretappers. He himself is one of the worst. He had an ex-con named Welch procure for him a gadget in the form of a magnetic mat. His telephone would be set on the mat, which was connected with a wire recorder in his desk. There was no "beep" on this device, as required by law. Welch was a close buddy of Pearson, and had learned minor electronics while a "guest" at Leavenworth Penitentiary. This was a story he loved to tell---behind Pearson's back.

Pearson used this to try to trap public officials into making statements that he could "use against them" in his own devious ways. One in particular was Judge David Bazleton, now chief judge of the DC Court of Appeals, but then a District Court Judge. According to a reliable report, Pearson tried for 45 minutes one day to trap Judge Bazleton into making a compromising statement, or two. But, the Judge must have smelled a mouse for he neatly parried every loaded question Pearson asked him, much to the chagrin of the would be entrapment "expert".

Washington Beat

High Lights---They're escalating Standard Oil's War in Viet Nam, but not in the way the professional liars in the Democratic Party said Barry Goldwater would do it, in 1964....Latest casualty report said 146 (innocent) American boys had been killed and 820 wounded.....This brought the total figures from Jan. 1, 1961---when Standard Oil trooped its colors from Eisenhower to Kennedy---to 3,809 killed, 18,180 wounded, 204 missing and 763 from the Drug Trust's hypodermic needle and other "non hostile" causes.....quite a price to pay for our Invisible Government.....Going from high blood letting to high finance, the Treasury has just increased its "temporary" national debt from $328 billion to $330 billion....."Permanent" national debt ceiling, they blandly say is $285 billion.....this doesn't include about $250 billion of unauthorized debt which they excuse by calling "contingent liabilities".....only a Rip Van Winkle Congress would let the Cockeyed Society managers get away with this.....which reminds us of the Harvard Egghead who said, when outlining his plan of Utopian misgovernment, Let us dare to think the unthinkable.....only two primaries in July.....on the 12th Virginia voters name their standard bearer to the unexpired term of resigned Sen. Harry Byrd and the unexpired term of Sen. Roberyson.....smart money is on the Byrd son and the incumbent Robertson.....Arkansas votes on incumbent Sen. McClellan the 26th.....

Side Lights---LBJ, in one of his blah-blah-blah stints on television, pontifically orated that we should "contain Communism in Greece, China, Korea and Viet Nam.".....CAPSULE NEWS must be out of tune with the Cockeyed Society.....We say he should first try to contain Communism in the United States.....Senate Report 2050, 82d Congress, will show him clearly where to start.....Agency for International Development, which is aiding everyone under the Sun except Americans (who are footing the bill) proudly announces it has just aided the economy, and maybe the balance of payments too, by disposing of 20,000,000 pieces of useless paper---copies of messages turned out by its "message center".....they don't have this itemized in your tax bill, but it's there nevertheless.....Federal Trade Commission has dismissed phoney charges brought by the Drug Trust against the author and publisher of the valuable book "Calories Don't Count".....

Low Lights---Viet Nameese "students" took a leaf from the book of US Negroes, agitated by professional Blacks, and burned the Library of the US Information Service in Saigon.....this we can't get excited about.....If it was anything like those USIS libraries we saw in Rome, Istanbul, Athens and Madrid, it was good riddance.....all we saw was a lot of second hand volumes on dreary subjects which nobody was reading.....Americans in South Africa are very caustic about Bobby Kennedy's attempts to stir up racial animosities in these supposedly friendly nations.....Lo and behold, it had repercussions as soon as he got back to the US....."State of the Nation" radio program succumbed to the professional Negroes and put on a Professional Black named Stokely Carmichael....we turned on our set and couldn't believe our ears....imitating the tone and voice and nuances of Bobby Kennedy, Carmichael was advocating that all Negroes in Viet Nam desert the Army, come home and burn down all the court houses in Mississippi. If Bobby believes imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, he should be proud.....

The Mystery Man of World War 2

UNDERGROUND IKE

Jack (Junior Louse) Anderson is the prize slacker and Mystery Man of World War II. Junior outdid his boss, Drew (Ananias) Pearson who took the prize slacker prize in World War I. Pearson is the arch hatist and disgrace to the newspaper profession who hates everybody (except Communists), and takes a sadistical delight in wrongfully hurting men in public life. Altho of prime draft age, Anderson never registered in 1942, or even thereafter, but went underground when he thought the Feds were catching up with him, or that his draft board was reaching out as if to say "Uncle Sam wants you, even if you ain't much of a man. He can put you on the Latrine Detail."

Anderson's cowardice came to light forcefully when he was forced to make a deposition in the case of a $6,000,000 libel suit filed against him and Pearson by Lt. Col. Philip Corso. "Wholesale Perjury" is a mild way of describing this affidavit; and perjury makes the culprit liable for 2-to-10 years in the penitentiary under District of Columbia law. Robert E. Manuel, the Corso attorney, did his best to draw out of him information about where he was all during World War II, for the purpose of determining his credibility.

Falsehood No. 1---But, no soap. CAPSULE NEWS has checked his nine major answers, and found 8½ of them to be outright lies. One of his nine major "Answers" (if one can call them that) was half true. His first statement was that he "received a call" to be a missionary of the Mormon Church, and stayed in that position over two years, under the belief that he (while 22 years old) was too young for the draft. The Mormon Church says he was an unsalaried pay-your-own-expenses missionary in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina from December 20, 1941, to Feb. 22, 1944. It took him but two weeks after Pearl Harbor for him to wangle this "call".

But it appears Anderson was using the Mormon Church as a cover for whatever he was doing to bring in the mazuma for his living, traveling and other expenses. His parents couldn't have been supporting him in this style because his father (Orlando N. Anderson) was only a clerk in the Salt Lake City post office, and his mother was unemployed.

They were listed thus in the 1941 Salt Lake City directory. Jack N. Anderson was listed as a reporter in the TRIBUNE; in 1940 as a student. He and his parents lived far down (2173) on Fardown Avenue. Next, Jack N. was listed in the 1946 job (compiled late in 1945) when his name was shown (no occupation) at the Fardown Avenue address. He thus had to have come from underground shortly or immediately after V-J Day, which day made him safe from his draft board.

Where he was underground is as much of a mystery here as is how he made the money to carry on his alleged missionary work. Many folks think he was conducting black market operations with the Mormon Church as a cover, since he had no trade or profession and this was a "popular" calling in those days for persons of that stripe with little or no ethics.

The false part of this "answer" was "I was ordained as a minister when I accepted the "call" to be a Mormon missionary." The Mormon religion says that a Mormon technically becomes an ordained minister at the age of 12 but has no powers until he makes 5 degrees. Starting at 12 he is a deacon. Then he has to take teacher, priest, elder, seventy and high priest. All of these degrees are automatic if he attends church.

Falsehood No. 2---"Early in 1944 I volunteered for the Naval Reserve and was sent to the Merchant Marine Academy, Marine Officer training school at San Mateo, California." The Navy Department says he didn't volunteer or join the Naval Reserves because there was no such thing at that time. With coming of the war all Naval Reserve units were mustered into the regular Navy and served alongside the gobs of the USN.

The Merchant Marine Academy brands the second part of this statement as false in its entirety. It said "We have checked our personnel records and find no one by the name of Jack Northman Anderson as attending this academy at any time."

The Navy also says that had he enlisted in the Navy they'd have never sent him to the Merchant Marine Academy, because that was a civilian outfit under control of the War Shipping Administration.

Falsehood No. 3---"After three months' study at the Academy, I received a commission as a midshipman." The Academy reports that this would have been false even if he ever was there, because their students are known as "cadets". In making up this lie Anderson got the MMA confused with the US Naval Academy. Then he lied again, under oath, when he said "I volunteered for this specific program, training as a Merchant Marine officer, as it was under the Naval Reserve." The Navy said that was false.

Falsehood No. 4---"After 3 months training, and receiving a commission as a midshipman (a rank that doesn't exist in the Merchant Marine) I went to sea on the CAPE ELIZABETH, one of our merchant marine ships. We sailed the South Pacific and Indian Ocean for 7 or 8 months." When asked the name of his captain during those 7 or 8 months he said he didn't know. And, Maritime Bureau records do not show him a member of this or any other merchant marine ship.

Then, the Maritime Administration says the "Liz" wasn't a training ship for the Merchant Marine Academy, but was a cargo ship (now in mothballs) plying the Pacific under control of the Army.

Falsehood No. 5---"I was a midshipman in the Merchant Marine about a year. My duties were navigation, cargo handling, studying, mostly as an apprentice officer." Because his explanations are all false, and since he "handled cargo" (if he did) it looks like he was a swab jockey or a stevedore, if he ever was on this ship. We found no evidence that he was.

Falsehood No. 6---He was asked if he got a discharge certificate from the Merchant Marine, like he would have from the other services if he had have registered the draft. His answer, blandly: "I don't recall". I left the Merchant Marine to become a war correspondent." Thru some unexplained process of alchemy, he turned up (so he said) "in a bush" with the Chinese guerillas as a "War Correspondent".

Falsehood No. 7---"I was in China from sometime in 1945 until sometime in 1947 and 1948." The Salt Lake City Directory for 1946 (compiled in late 1945, or shortly after V-J Day) shows Jack N. Anderson, no occupation, back at his parents' home in Salt Lake City.

Falsehood No. 8---"I was inducted into the US Army in Chungking after the war was over (which was August 16, 1945). They tried to get me before, but I was in the bush with Chinese guerillas. When I came out the American Embassy told me the Army had been inquiring about me."

Col. Frank Milani, adjutant general of the US forces in the China-Burma-India Theater during the war, said this part of Anderson's yarn is preposterous. The Army didn't induct people. That was done by draft boards and recruiting offices. The Army didn't pick up people unless requested by the State Dept, and then they were turned over to the American Embassy.

Falsehood No. 9---Replying to the question---"What branch of the Army were you inducted into, the infantry, artillery, or whatnot?" Anderson bibbly said "the Stars and Stripes". This was an Army newspaper in Europe, as Col. Milani pointed out. He said the C-B-I had its own paper, the ROUND-UP.

An Arabian Nights Tale---If he ever was in China it requires a fanciful flight of the imagination to imagine how he got there. Did he pick the name of the ship CAPE ELIZABETH out of a hat? It could have been that, in seeking to get out of the country before the draft board caught up with him, he signed-up under a false name as a swab jockey or latrine orderly on the "Liz", then jumped ship when it got to Hong Kong.

The one thing that stands out from his false testimony is that he beat Pearson at his own game of draft dodging. Pearson's board did catch up with him, on October 25, 1918 (14 days before the Armistice) and scared him so badly he joined up with the girl cadets equivalent at Swarthmore College. Anderson's draft board never did catch up with him because he risked five years in the pen by not registering.

Underground Ike - Where, oh where, was the Junior Louse when Uncle Sam was issuing, in the words of the war song, "his stirring call for men." Who knows? Aside from the fact that he was 'way underground, and didn't come out of the woodwork until V-J Day. Like Pearson on Armistice Day 1918, he was safe as a butterfly in a cocoon.

Harassing Jimmy Hoffa

MOSCOW TO WASHINGTON, CHICAGO AND CHATTANOOGA

James Riddle Hoffa, the Detroit Strong Boy of Union Labor, has been taking knocks and slams and blows (below the belt and over) from the Communist element in the AFL-CIO complex, and coming back for more, for upwards of 30 years. Since the day in 1937, when he called Walter (Big Red) Reuther, fresh out of Russia, a "Communist bum" for calling a Russian-type "sit down strike" in Chevrolet's Flint (Mich) plant, he has been the target for unbelievable abuse and vilification in the left-wing press and by the servants of domestic Communism.

But he always managed to come up smiling, until the sixth time he was framed before a grand jury, indicted and tried. Five times he was acquitted when unbrainwashed juries heard the side of the story that was denied the grand juries. But they finally "got" him in Chicago (1964) and Chattanooga (65). How this was accomplished showed the diabolical cleverness of the Communist "apparatus" in the USA. Diatribes in the parlor pink and backhouse red press had no effect, so the sounding board known as the US Senate was brought into play.

Reuther-Kennedy Alliance---Reuther snuggled up to a Senator from Massachusetts with Presidential ambitions. He told him he'd swing the whole labor vote and the whole Communist vote for him if he would help get Hoffa. The job was too dirty for Jack Kennedy, so he assigned his brother (Bobby) as counsel for the Senate rackets committee, and let him "go to town on Hoffa". The record shows that Bobby had Hoffa collared by the committee and began the usual technique of shyster lawyers by ignoring the issues and asking smear questions that the Red Wing press had many field days relating. Persons reading these accounts couldn't be blamed for thinking Jimmy Hoffa should be hung, drawn and quartered.

So, after ten years of this, it became impossible to find a jury that hadn't been brainwashed to this "theory". After five acquittals a jury came out of the wheel, whose 12 members looked on Hoffa as something the cat dragged in. That's how he was finally convicted---a triumph for diabolically clever Communist technique. The victim (Hoffa) has appealed both these Communist "victories".

Kennedy Smears---Bobby applied the Communist tar brush to Hoffa in short order. As counsel for the McClellan Rackets Committee of the Senate, he hauled him before the "bar" time and again, asking smear questions and seeing that the Kept Press duly noted it. It was done so many times that much of the reading public automatically looked on the victim as an un-American ogre. At one time Bobby looked into the spectator seats and winked at Hoffa in a "How'm I doin'?" stance. Reuther thought he was doing very well; better than anyone since Reuther had written from Russia "Carry on for a Soviet America until I get back."

These Reuther-Kennedy smears helped bring about indictments on Aug 2, 1957....July 19, 1957....Mar 4, 1957....May 9, 1963....June 4, 1963....May 9, 1963....August 1962.... Since all of these indictments were on practically the same charges, brought by the same goons, the picture is clear. It was a clear cut exposition of the Hitler Philosophy---"If you tell a lie big enough, loud enough and long enough, the sucker public will believe it." This is something the Russians since have taken up and exploited.

Broken Down Lawyer---A significant feature of the frame-up is that B. Kennedy got hold of a broken down lawyer with the incredible name (if that was his name) of J. Cye Cheasty, put him on the Committee payroll at $4,400 a year and set him to work to trap Mr. Hoffa. Or to say he had trapped him. A jury in Washington acquitted Cheasty's first intended victim. One member frankly said he didn't believe the entraper. Thirteen months later another jury (in Chattanooga, Tenn), which had been subject to the Communist brainwash 13 months longer, was moronic enough to believe an ex-teamster convict, then out on bail, who had been similarly "coached" by Kennedy.

This well points up what the Hoffa lawyer (Dan Maher) said in the Nashville courtroom, when a well brainwashed moron shot a popgun at Hoffa: "This is the inevitable result of hostility evidenced against a defendant by the 'government', from the flood of publicity brought against him by the Justice Dept and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (then R. F. Kennedy) of the United States."
